Your dollars and cents, when tendered in payment of such an undertaker's bill, are regarded more as a token of appreciation than as the discharge of an obligation. When you call an undertaker, be sure he is a good one—it takes a good man to do a difficult task well—and remember the name—

Vacations Necessary

You may not be able to lock up shop and go away for several weeks, but almost anyone may arrange to get away from the regular grind for a few days and have a change of scenes and occupation. Play golf fish or do anything but the regular humdrum occupation of the rest of the year. A day in the park, or, better still, a day in the Forest Preserves, will give relaxation and change that cannot but be beneficial. Don't be selfish about it, take the wife and kiddies with you, they will enjoy it more than you and need it as much. Most of the Forest Preserves may be reached by the surface lines or interurban, and they are well worth visiting as they have been nicely prepared for picnicking parties with good water, shelter in case of storm and all conveniences for cooking and preparing meals free of cost. Try them for a short outing.

Helping "Fill Up" the Paper

While we want to publish all of the local news, we must have it short, crisp and strictly to the point, and it is a bit aggravating to have some well intentioned person tell us "I brought this article in to help you fill up the paper." With print paper over ten cents a pound, and printers wages nearly $60 per, it is not all we require in our paper, just to fill it up. We cover a large field and cannot publish lengthy articles of any kind, in fact we would cut our own obituary down to five lines to make room for more local news. We are mighty obliging fellows, and dislike very much to offend any reader, but we cannot sacrifice much needed space for short locals, to make room for lengthy articles. One lady thinks "you should take out some of the advertisements." Yes, we might stop our advertisements, but the trouble would be we would have to stop eating at the same time, and we have found no way to keep on living and publishing without eating. This is just another effort to explain why we do not publish some of the articles sent us, and asking our kind contributors to please "cut them down."

7% AND SAFETY. Our first mortgages upon improved and producing farms have never lost a penny of interest or principal to our hundreds of satisfied customers. They are secured by a first lien upon indestructable property—agricultural land which yields annual and successive harvests which always find a ready market. These securities are non-fluctuating—in which respect they differ from a bond or a stock investment which is always affected by market conditions. Every farm mortgage which we make remains continuously under our supervision until it is paid off in full. Interest and principal are collected and remitted to you without charge. Such an investment is as simple as a savings account and pays over twice as much.

In a generation we have built up a reputation for care and conservatism which has brought us customers from over 30 states. We will be glad to send you our booklet and list of desirable mortgages without obligation.

REVOLVER INVENTED BY BOY

Idea of Deadly Small Arm Was Born in the Brain of Fourteen-Year-Old Runaway.

The revolver, that until the invention of the automatic pistol, was the most deadly small arm known to man, was born of the brain of a fourteen-year-old boy, Samuel Colt. Colt ran away from school and shipped on board a merchant vessel bound for the East Indies. He had a good deal of idle time on his hands once the ship was well at sea, and a long period of calm weather followed its movements. He began to seek an outlet for his active imagination and mechanical urge. He attempted various things to aid sailing, but without any great success. He then took to planning a pistol that would shoot several times with a single load. He had only bits of wood and a jack knife to work with, but before the voyage was over he had cut out a model for a revolver very similar to the pattern still in use.

Once at home again, he went to work in his father's factory, but the revolver idea was still in his head, and he worked at it from time to time until he was twenty-one. At this point his experiments had so far advanced that he asked for and obtained patents in America and European countries. A stock company was organized, and from this humble start the great Colt arms factory was begun, and the revolver put on a market that soon carried it around the world.

Advice.

We hand this out and ask no price—And know that you'll forsake it. For you must charge for your advice—if you want folks to take it.—Arkansas Thomas Cat.

Of the Family of Smiths.

The man who spells his name with a "y" and a final "e" is not the bombastic Smith that many suppose; the name was originally spelled in this manner. Gold and silver smiths, of course, were men who worked in these metals; brownsmith was a man who worked in bronze; a greensmith worked in lead. The word name Nasmith is thought to be derived from nailsmith.

Pageant Goes Over the Top

"Englewood's pageant of progress is going over the top," said Wm. Sayre, chairman of the pageant committee, in reporting today to the board of directors of the Englewood Business Men's Association.

"Street decorations have been ordered up and the sale of popularity contest vote tickets is going along merrily," continued Mr. Sayre.

Englewood's pageant of progress now being conducted by the Englewood Business Men's Association is destined to go down in history as the greatest publicity stunt ever undertaken by a commercial organization.

Besides the popularity contest which is being conducted to select a queen of the pageant and in which a lively interest is being displayed, the committee has arranged to decorate the streets, and many other forms of entertainment and publicity, as previously announced, are being developed.

We want to correct a statement made in these columns last week to the effect that store fronts will be decorated by the committee. The funds of the committee will be used for the street decorations only and the store decorations will be made by the individual merchants.

For Antiquarians to Solve.

In discussing the origin of names from occupations an interesting point crops up. A man might have been a cooper and his son a weaver, why was the family known as coopers and not weavers? Just at what point did the appellation crystalize into a name? Careful study has failed to clear up this point.

When It Fails.

It isn't true that men will do anything for money. Some won't work for it.—Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

Australia Great Butter Country.

Australia produces about 200,000,000 pounds of butter annually, of which 75,000,000 pounds are exported.

FLEX-A-TILE your roof

For cottage or mansion—for re-roofing, or for the new building, or right over the old shingles—use beautiful Flex-a-Tiles; the durable, fire-resisting, all-weather protection of asphalt, shingles or rolls.

Put on a roof that will last for years and years; that makes the house, with its attractive covering of Flex-a-Tile green (or red if you prefer) a beauty spot on the landscape.

UNVARYING QUALITY BUILT IN

The well known Richardson felt from our own mills is saturated and coated with Flex-a-Tile natural asphalt scientifically processed in our refineries, and then the slate chips from our own quarries are rolled into the hot asphalt. This really enamels the surface with a natural colored slate.

We control every material—every process—so that the quality must be right. Delicate instruments test the felt and asphalt; insure proper saturation; gauge the thickness and weight accurately. And skilled workmen, faithful to the practices of over half a century of felt and roofing manufacturing experience, take a pride in every foot of Flex-a-Tile they turn out.

YOUR DEALER KNOWS

how well made, how easily applied, how long-lasting Flex-a-Tiles are. Ask him to show them to you. See how beautiful, how perfect they are. And this real quality costs you no more than ordinary roofing.

Visit our mills and we'll gladly show you how Flex-a-Tiles are made up to standard all the time.

Raleigh's Great Work.

H. G. Wells wasn't the first to write a world history of his own conception. Sir Walter Raleigh antedated him by several hundred years. Raleigh's "History of the World" was a voluminous and painstaking work, showing evidences of profound scholarship and research. It was composed while he was a prisoner in the Tower of London, and it was one of the marvels of the time that a man, under such circumstances, and so far removed from sources of research, could have been able to undertake and carry through such a task.

Autoists Should Be Compelled to Carry Liability Insurance

Most of the automobile accidents that happen are caused by irresponsible drivers of whom no damages may be recovered by the person they injure or for the property they destroy. A bill compelling every owner of an auto to carry insurance for such liability, before a license should be issued to him, would in a great measure give relief to the victims. The driver of a ten dollar smoke box can cause a thousand dollars' damage, or take a life as easy as the most expensive car in use, only you may make the owner of the expensive car pay, as he is insured against liability and the insurance company must stand back of all injuries inflicted by that car, irrespective of the negligence or carelessness of the owner or driver. If the officers and courts would enforce the laws, with this liability clause added, there would be a great change in reckless driving, as the insurance companies would not care to issue a policy to irresponsible persons, and if they could get no license, they could not drive. Let us have such a law at once.

Death Takes Old Resident

The death of Mrs. Maurice H. Adams which occurred suddenly at her home, 7315 Yale ave., Sunday morning, June 19th, takes from this community one who has long been identified with Englewood and its institutions.

Mrs. Adams was born in Michigan but came to live among us in 1882, having continuous residence here since that time. She was one of the original group which formed the Charity Alliance and a charter member of the Englewood Woman's club, identifying herself prominently with those and other organizations which had for their object the bettering of Englewood's civic and social development.

Her acquaintance was widespread and her passing will be mourned by many who had known the helpful influence of her kindly life.

Besides the husband the deceased leaves a daughter, Mrs. J. Bruce Allen; a sister, Miss Sera E. Jennings, and a brother, Wm. S. Jennings.

Funeral services were from the home Tuesday afternoon, Robert O. Thomas, minister of the Normal Park Presbyterian church officiating. Burial was at Battle Creek, Mich., her birthplace, where both the Jennings and Adams families were pioneer residents. Services in Battle Creek were held in the old Adams homestead, now converted into a chapel where forty-two years ago Mrs. Adams was taken a bride.

TRAGEDY IN INCREASED GIRTH

Man May Smile at His Rotundity, but to Woman It Is a Matter of Terror.

A fat man is usually a jolly sort of an individual who accepts the world as the same sort of a joke as the world considers him. Girth may worry a man occasionally because it is an annoyance, but with the modern woman it verges upon tragedy. As physicians—if they would talk freely—can tell you, it is a worry to them that frequently leads to ruined health, insanity or the grave, the New York Sun says.

It is possible for a man to grow fat gracefully. At least he can subdue his habits, stop running for trains, give up his golf and spend most of his time in ponderous poses. His tailor can easily arrange his clothing into well known and accepted lines.

The case of the woman is different. Fashion binds her as with a chain. There are no stylish frocks for stout women. The fashion calls for slim figures and trim ankles. Waists and hips are taboo. There are no sleeves capable of concealing overfleshed arms. Man can adapt his clothes to his figure, but woman must adapt her figure to the clothes or else shamelessly admit that she cannot wear what is fashionable.

It was not always so. In another generation the stout woman had a well-defined place—the "dowager type," it was sometimes called. The woman who made the best biscuits and cooked the most savory chicken was always a round sort of person who never minded it when people came unexpectedly around at dinner time. She was the one children flocked to for sympathy and the one who seemed to make the world brighter wherever she went.

The Way of Jayhawkers.

"Wilder's Annals of Kansas" gives this history of the word: "One autumn morning in this year (1856) Pat Devlin, a Free State Irishman, rode into Osawatomie on a horse heavily laden with many kinds of goods. 'Have you been foraging, Pat?' 'Yes, I've been jayhawking. In Ireland we have a bird we call the jayhawk; it worries its prey before devouring it; and jayhawking is a good name for the business I've been in.' This is the only known origin of the word. Colonel Jennison, early in the war (between the pro-slavery and free state forces) called himself and his soldiers jayhawkers, and the name soon came to be applied to all Kansans. Others attribute the word to Col. Charles R. Jennison, one of the Free State leaders, claiming that he "coined" it. "Jayhawking" was the term used to describe the depredations of the Kansans and they were called "Jayhawkers," as the term "Border Ruffians" was applied to the Missouri pro-slavery men.

AFFECTS EXCHANGE IN INDIA

Brokers and Currency Dealers Find Business Greatly Influenced by the Marriage Season.

Among the influences which affect the currency of a country, probably none but experts in exchange would be inclined to include marrying and giving in marriage, says the Detroit Free Press.

Yet it is a fact that the Indian marriage season, which comes in May, does actually have an adverse effect on the rate of exchange in India, just as the exports of wheat and grain from India form another seasonal influence which turns exchange in favor of India.

Custom in India dictates that the bridegroom, or his father, should give gold and silver ornaments to the bride at the time of the marriage. These ornaments are called "stree-dhau," and they represent, in reality, a marriage settlement. They are the woman's absolute property, and she naturally preserves them with great care.

At the marriage time a great "tomasha," or feast, is given to the immediate relatives and followers of the two families, and this, of course, necessitates a lavish expenditure of silver. Bankers, brokers and Eastern exchange dealers have found by experience that the coming of the marriage season in India is heralded by a demand for a vast amount of silver currency, and they accordingly take steps in advance to enable them to meet it.

MEN AWARDED GODLIKE RANK

Two Worshiped in China and Elaborate Temples Erected at the Birthplace of One.

Man worship is still practiced in China, according to Rev. F. S. Burket, a Baptist minister of Changning, who found two disciples of the late Liau, seated on thrones and receiving the obeisance of thousands of their followers.

Liau, who achieved local fame years ago, because of his reputed power of healing diseases and relieving the oppressed in spirit, was executed by the authorities, who feared an uprising. Two of Liau's disciples, Ling Shuk and Lai Sam Shuk, however, like their master, began to heal diseases in his name, and gradually were raised by their followers to the same godlike rank accorded Liau.

Ling Shuk is seventy-one years old and Lai Sam Shuk eight years his junior. Several ornate temples have been built to Liau. At the main one, located at Liau's birthplace about 15 miles from Changning, the missionary found gathered more than 2,000 people to celebrate Liau's birth anniversary. The two immortals were seated on the highest of a series of terraces with an empty throne between them for the spirit of Liau. Before them stood a large table covered with ornamental objects and in front of this the worshipers go through strange gymnastics.

Children's Room at the Hiram Kelly Library

Do you know who had a magic lamp?—won a pair of silver skates?—went to a ball in a pumpkin coach? lived in a candy house in the woods? Find out about these people in the books at your public library.

The Hiram Kelly library has a room just for the children. In the "children's room" are 6,000 books—story books, fairy tales, animal tales, speakers, books of games and parties, books telling how to make things, aeroplanes, sail boats, dolls, and how to do things, dress a doll, play tennis, how to swim; books about children of other countries. All these and many, many others may be read in the children's room, or may be taken home on a library card. The library invites all of the children to come over and use the books. If you haven't a card, ask for one. A vacation card, entitling one to draw as many as ten books on a card to be returned on or before October 1st, is issued to children upon the written request of parent.

The following books for children have been added to the "children's room" recently:

Stories

Abbott, Highacres; Adventures of Pirates and Sea-Rovers; Bishop, Bob Thorpe, Sky Fighter in Italy; Brown, Christmas Angel; Burnett, Secret Garden; Carleton, Dorothy, the Motor Girl; Chase, Virginia of Elk Creek Valley; Cheley, Boy Scout Trail Blazers; Colver, Babs; Colver, Babs at College; Crump, Boy Scout Fire Fighters; Curtis, Grandpa's Little Girls; Grandpa's Little Girls and Their Friends; Grandpa's Little Girls' House Boat Party; Grandpa's Little Girls at School; Defoe, Robinson Cruzoe; Douglas, Children in the Little Old Red House; Fitzhugh, Along the Mohawk Trail; Hare, Philip Kent in the Lower School; Hare, Philip Kent in the Upper School; London, Brown Wolf, and Other Stories; Taggart, Wyndham Girls; Tomlinson, A Lieutenant Under Washington; Wilson, Scouts of the Desert; Anderson, Fairy Tales; Burgess, Lightfoot, the Deer; Smith, Friendly Terrace Quartette; Wright, Trails to Wonderland.

Orang-Outang Misnomer.

Orangutan, says a correspondent, from southeastern Borneo, means, in the Malay language, "man of the forest," while orang-outang, the name which we carelessly apply to the great anthropoid, means "man in debt."

Nothing Known of Its Value.

Cleopatra had a warranted preventive of baldness, or a sure cure. Possibly she intended to employ it to wheedle Caesar or buy off rebellious Pothinus. Perhaps she planned to present it to Antony as a surprise at Tarsus. Possibly she held up the gift in a mode of feminine fickleness, and had it in her reticule at Actium, and through the power of that talisman drew Antony after her in frenzied pursuit, and in ignominious retreat. There is nothing in the discoveries of Egyptologists to warrant belief that Cleopatra's hair restorer had any actual value.—Exchange.

The Mark Shows.

"You can often mend broken dishes and broken friendships, mend 'em pretty good," said a wise woman; "but they're never just the same again—the place where the break was is sure to show. Anybody that cares as much for china and friendships as I do, will be careful in handlin' both of 'em."

Harvard

Manager Coston has arranged to give the public an excellent program for the coming week. Friday and Saturday, June 24th and 25th, the pretty little "vamp," Constance Talmadge, in "Lessons in Love." She hides her identity behind a serving maid's uniform, and, thus disguised, plays fast and loose with him. Of course, he falls in love with her and she with him. There is a serious misunderstanding towards the end, but the decidedly complex situation is finally smoothed out. Also Pathe News and, matinee only, Eddie Polo in "Do or Die."

Sunday, June 26th, a drama of a woman's faith, "Courage," adapted from the story by Andrew Sontax. Why wait for a husband who may never return? Why wait for fleeting years to snatch away unrealized hopes? Why wait when there are others who offer love and the happiness of which she knew so little? We won't tell you any more of the story because we don't want to spoil the play for you. Also the king of comedians, Roscoe Arbuckle, assisted by Buster Keaton, in a revival of his famous comedy, "Bell Boy."

Monday, June 27th, Wm. DeMille's latest masterpiece, "What Every Woman Knows," featuring Lois Wilson and Conrad Nagel. It is quite common to hear of the thief who slips in through a window and makes away with the family silverware, but one gets a shock when one hears that the latest film "burglar" is a man who makes clandestine visits at night to the home of an old Scotchman, steals in by the library window, takes down a few books and for two or three hours, greedily steals knowledge! Then, replacing the books and touching nothing else in the house, silently makes his exit via the window. Also International News and Snub Pollard comedy and Chester Outing.

And best of all, Tuesday, June 28th, Betty Compson in "Prisoners of Love." Betty Compson in her first starring vehicle, "Prisoners of Love," is presented in the role of Blanche Davis, a girl who is possessed through inheritance, of a dangerous degree of physical attractiveness. Her father, Wesley Davis, millionaire financier and clubman, has for years succumbed to the wiles of unscrupulous women while his wife, although aware of his duplicity, suffers in silence. Davis becomes obsessed with the idea that his daughter carries her flirtations with her youthful admirers beyond the bounds of propriety.

Ancient "Chapman."

In olden days there was a merchant who would buy his stores in the cheapest market load them into a wagon, and drive about the country, selling where he could. He was known as a chapman and the modern name is derived from that word. As the merchant's chief stock in trade was a jovial personality the word chap has long meant a jolly fellow.

SULLIVAN'S SENSE AND NONSENSE

KEEP A-GOIN'

If you strike a thorn or rose
Keep a-goin'!
It it hails or if it snows
Keep a-goin'!
'Tain't no use to sit and whine
When the fish ain't on the line
Bait your hook an' keep on trym'
Keep a-goin'!

When the weather kills your crop
Keep a-goin'!
When you tumble from the top.
Keep a-goin'!
S'pose you're out of every dime?
Gettin' broke ain't any crime!
Tell the world you're feelin' prime—
Keep a-goin'!

When it looks like all is up.
Keep a-goin'!
Drain the sweetness from the cup.
Keep a-goin'!
See the wild birds on the wing!
Hear the bells that sweetly ring!
When you feel like singing—sing!
Keep a-goin'!

We are burdened with excess prophets as well as profiteers.

I'll bet the biggest picture at Big Bill's big show will be Big Bill and his big hat.

Casey says, "Ut takes two to mek a quarrel, boot awl wan has to do is to start something."

There will be more new houses built when more young fellows are using hammers and fewer using golf sticks.

Casey says that "the mos' popular iv the new dances do be thim thot do be a step beyant the proprieties."

If any of those stray comets get gay with this earth, we may just turn Babe Ruth and his big baseball bat loose on them.

There is a girl at the high school they call "Third Rail Jane." One of the boys explained that it was because she couldn't be touched.

I remarked to Casey, "It is hard to tell what a woman will do," at which that sage answered, "Yis, an' in sum cases it don't be advisable."

Casey says, "We kin avoid foreign entanglemints by hoving a navy thot kin do the most knots wid the biggest guns."

Some one asks, "Do you think electric lamps grow on trees?" and we humbly submit, "No, not on trees, but the electric light plant."

One of the local stores advertises, "our ladies hosiery attracts attention." Yes, I have noticed that for many days.

I don't think the average man would be so opposed to the standing army if it were not for the dinky glittering uniforms some officers insist upon clothing themselves with.

It is going to be a bit embarrassing to mere man this year to tell whether the dear girls are dressed in their bathing suits or party dresses, as there is about the same amount of material in each.

They were out riding in his flivver and one of those cold spells came on suddenly and the gallant young man suggested, "Shall I take off my coat and put it around you?" at which the modest maid from Englewood answered, "You may put your coat around me if you like, but i—er—i see no reason to take it off."

One motorist over at Porter's asked another, "How much do you get out of a gallon these days?" and the red nosed one misunderstood him and answered, "Oh, I get about twenty good drinks if I am thirsty."

Ye Editor Takes a Flight

Insane Fancies of An Old Man Who Wanders to the Nation's Capital

Djaever notice about traveling that it is like an automobile, the upkeep is what costs, not the original expense. Then again, when a fellow who only travels occasionally makes up his mind to go somewheres, he first begins to thing of his grip or suitcase, and wonder whom he loaned it to; chasing it down he is met with, "Did you loan me your bag? Yes, I guess you did; well, I wonder whom I loaned it to etc.," and you spend half a day tracing it down to the finale which is, "Well, I guess I had it once, but I don't know where it is now; but it isn't much loss as it didn't amount to anything," and you, poor fish, start in on your upkeep expense by buying a new one. Now, a regular traveling man would grab a tooth brush and a nightie, slap them into a dilapidated looking old bag and be prepared for a trip to Honolulu or Blue Island. All of this, dear reader, is preliminary to telling you that I am again on the wing and at present in Washington, D. C. Not that Mr. Harding insisted upon my presence, but simply fulfilling my duty as a regular citizen ready for duty when called upon. Allow me to say in passing, that Washington has doubled its population in the last few months, and all of the new inhabitants, and most of the old ones, are here on the same errand, all willing to sacrifice themselves on the altar of patriotism—for a consideration, of course. Congressmen, senators and even the White House cook or anyone else with real or supposed influence is being opportuned to "please do something to get me a job." President Harding seems to have a great deal more respect for civil service than our own small Governor Small, and there are very few changes being made other than in personal appointments and heads of departments, so the machinery of government is moving along without slipping a cog, and no one cares a hang if the fellows who do the work are republicans or democrats so they do the work rightly. In fact the new White House administration seems quite democratic. Mrs. Harding has made many friends by her unassuming manner and appears to be just the sort of good woman whom a neighbor might drop in on in an emergency, such as unexpected company or something and borrow a cake of yeast or a cup of sugar, or even the dining room chairs for a funeral or wedding. The president hasn't made any brilliant breaks, but has gathered about him one of the strongest cabinets ever assembled in Washington, and he isn't above acting on their advice, as that is what he selected them for. As a result congress is moving along in the way they should, and with a wholesome respect for the big man at the other end of the Avenue.

Our own congressman, Elliott W. Sproul, is receiving recognition a bit unusual for a new member, and has been appointed on four very important committees and is doing excellent work. He is already well known on the floor of the house and in committee work where his valuable knowledge as a contractor and builder, gained at first hand, stands he and the committees in good stead. The people of the third district made no mistake in sending Mr. Sproul to Washington, and while, all unknown to him, I watched his stalwart figure moving about easily and gracefully on the floor of the house, consulted by the leaders at times, I felt pretty proud of our townsman.

Former Congressman Wilson has been well cared for and is an assistant attorney general, I learn, attached to the treasury department. I have not met up with him as yet, but probably will soon. Congressman Madden is also a mighty man here and almost heads the Illinois, or at least, the Chicago delegation.

The government at present is engaged mostly in tearing down and wrecking many of the temporary buildings erected for war purposes. Of course there is the usual building of high class apartments to house the officials and government attaches, but there is no great building boom on here. A man close in to the "know it" assured me that the coal situation the coming winter will be one of the difficult problems. No coal to speak of is being mined, as the usual purchaser has been holding off in hopes of a reduction of freight rates and consequent decrease in price, while if any change is made, it surely will not produce any more coal and the fellow who has waited is very likely to wish he had not when the cold weather comes on.

Washington is certainly a beautiful city, its parks are most interesting and well kept. Potomac Park reaches along the river for about ten miles with a speedway circling around the mall which contains the Lincoln memorial and the Washington monument, then down to the Capitol. Rock Creek Park is a marvelously beautiful park, and on the southwest comes the Zoological Park, the greatest "zoo" in the world, it is said; then the grounds at the National Soldiers' home are beautifully parked and attractive. Elipse Park is just now on the map, as it is there President Harding takes his morning walk, rain or shine, and may be seen with "Laddie," his favorite Airedale dog, swinging off at a brisk rate as if he enjoyed it as much as when he played tuba horn in the Marion Silver cornet band back in Ohio.

I am afraid I will have to disappoint some Englewood friends about getting them well paying jobs, as I haven't even landed my own as yet and I don't belong to the job hunters' union, either. The trouble is that there are so many distinguished citizens here that a Jim Crow newspaper man has about as much chance as one William Bryan had some years ago. Any person or persons who think the administration is going to do anything serious to the prohibition laws, has another guess coming, as the house the senate and the administration will leave it severely alone, so the only chance for that abnormal thirst is to carry something "on the hip" and be mighty careful about that, as government agents are now searching a man to his eye teeth, to see if they can get anything on him.

Memorial exercises will be held next week in honor of Congressman-at-large William E. Mason, and as a loyal Illinoisan, I will be on hand. He was a general favorite here "Uncle Joe" Cannon is as sprightly as ever and looks more like the grandfather of the house than the "father." He is a good old scout and Illinois may be proud of him.

The weather is warm, but pleasant. The drives are beautiful and roads good. Expect to motor all over the historical places this week and will tell you my conclusions in my next.

GERALD E. SULLIVAN.

Don't Blame the Town; Blame Yourself

The committees that have been soliciting contributions for the new lighting system on 63rd St have had to listen to all sorts of abuse and comments. Some would imply that the solicitors are making a fat thing on it; others are very liberal in advice as to how the town should be run, but thank the good old reliables, there are enough who have some local patriotism and "pep" and they will see the matter through. Some who will not contribute will profit the most by the lights, yet are willing to have their neighbors pay for the benefits they will receive. Of course we know they will not read this as they haven't gumption enough to take the local paper, but maybe someone will tell them of it. These parasites who profit on others' efforts and do nothing themselves to advance the community in which they live and do business are a species of animals familiarly called "cooties" by our boys when over seas, and every community has them so we suppose we must take our share of them. If the project of lighting the street should fail, even those who do not keep open at nights will appreciate the losses in trade in a very short time, but will probably spend then extra time in wondering what is the matter with our town.

German House Pipes in Demand.

The early German "house pipes" are much prized by collectors. They are of formidable size, some of them holding as much as a pound of tobacco. These pipes are usually of porcelain, beautifully molded and decorated.

Argentina Not a Paradise.

The distribution of rain seems to be poorly managed in the Argentine; if the country is not suffering from drought, it is apt to be complaining of floods or, in the warmer and more fertile north of the locusts which sometimes sweep from the wilderness of the Chaco in such clouds that the proposal has seriously been considered of erecting an enormous net, supported perhaps by balloons, against them.—Harry A. Franck in Century Magazine.
